

GRANDE PRAIRIE REGIONAL COLLEGE
DEPARTMENT OF ARTS, COMMERCE & EDUCATION
COURSE OUTLINE

NT 1000 (Introduction to Native Studies) – Fall 2000

TANSI

SEP 25 2000

INSTRUCTOR: Campbell Ross

OFFICE: C312

TELEPHONE: 539-2993

TEXT: I Have Lived Here Since the World Began, Arthur Ray and The First Canadians, Comeau and Santin.

OVERVIEW: NT 1000 is an introduction to Native and University level studies. Half the term will study the history of European Canadian – Native contact in order to identify the origins of present conditions. The remainder of the course will focus on contemporary Native issues.

PART A (September to mid-October)
History of Native/Non-Native Relations

The aim is to acquire a sound general knowledge of the chronology of this experience and debate the main changes in relationships that have occurred. Questions will be assigned on this text and additional articles will be added at points. Evaluation will be based on completed class-assigned text questions (20%), review of one article (10%), and mid-term exam (20%).

PART B (late-October to December)
Contemporary Issues in Native/Non-Native Relations

The aim is to acquire a sound general knowledge of the nature of present-day issues and debate the competing views on how progress is to be best made. Questions will be assigned on this text and excerpts from The Royal Commission on Aboriginal Peoples (1996) will be added at points. Evaluation will be based on completed class-assigned text questions (20%), review of one section of Royal Commission (10%), and final exam (20%).

NT 1000 (Introduction to Native Studies)

TANSI

Overview

NT1000 is an introduction to Native and University level studies. Half the term will study the history of European Canadian - Native contact in order to identify the origins of present conditions. The remainder of the course will focus on contemporary Native issues

Part A: September to mid-October

History of Native/non-Native relations

The aim is to acquire a sound general knowledge of the chronology of this experience and debate the main changes in relationship that have occurred. Our text will be Skyscrapers Hide the Heavens by J.R.Miller. Questions will be assigned on this text and additional articles will be added at points. Evaluation will be based on completed class-assigned text questions (20%), review of one article (10%), and mid-term exam (20%)

Part B: late-October to December

Contemporary Issues in Native/non-Native relations

The aim is to acquire a sound general knowledge of the nature of present-day issues and debate the competing views on how progress is to be best made. Our text is The First Canadians by Comeau and Santin. Questions will be assigned on this text and excerpts from The Royal Commission on Aboriginal Peoples (1996) will be added at points. Evaluation will be based on completed class-assigned text questions (20%), review of one section of Royal Commission (10%), and final exam(20%)

Campbell Ross
Office C312
539-2993